Ottawa (CP)—New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas said in an interview here today that French President Charles de Gaulle's "Long live Free Quebec" remarks in Montreal Monday were the words of an aging man at the end of a long and grueling day.

Mr. Douglas appealed to all Canadians to keep the president's remarks in perspective.

"We ought not to read into them more than was intended."

If the French president was meddling in Canadian affairs, that would be unfortunate, Mr. Douglas said. But no good purpose could be served by hasty reprimand on Canada's part.

Press Roasts French Chief For Views

Times News Services

Newspapers in France, Britain and the United States have criticized President de Gaulle for encouraging Quebec separatism.

Even a Quebec separatist leader said he found de Gaulle's attitude surprising.

And a Montreal MP has called for the immediate cancellation of the remainder of the French president's visit to Canada.

The New York Times and the French liberal paper Combat today criticized de Gaulle for encouraging separatism.

Combat asks in a front-page editorial what right de Gaulle has to get himself involved in the internal affairs of another country.

"By what right does he make himself judge, referee and instigator of Quebec's destiny.

"We also ask ourselves by what culpable absentmindedness General de Gaulle, in evoking the economic realities peculiar to Quebec, forgot that Quebec lives in the economic orbit of the United States, according to manners borrowed from the American way of life, that the links that bind it to American capitalism assure it a comfortable present and future—and that it is still awaiting French investors," the newspaper says.

DOUBTS VISIT HELPFUL

Combat wonders whether it was really helpful, "if it is not crazily dangerous, to go with this aplomb before the separatist minority of Quebec, to give them such tokens, such a guarantee rather than to play a part in the harmonious development of Canada."

PM Plans de Gaulle Statement After Emergency Cabinet Talks

'Free Quebec' Cheered

By STAN McDOWELL

MONTREAL—President Charles de Gaulle shouted the slogan of Quebec separatism to an excited crowd of thousands of separatist demonstrators here Monday evening.

The French president's cry of "Vive le Quebec libre," (long live free Quebec), and a massive and well-organized turnout by members and followers of the separatist Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale.

Separatist View Stirs Up Storm

Times News Services

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson planned a mid-afternoon statement today following an emergency cabinet meeting that debated the controversial Quebec speeches of French President Charles de Gaulle.

A cabinet spokesman said the prime minister had not spoken to Gen. de Gaulle or any member of his staff since the French president ended a Monday night speech in Montreal with the separatist slogan: "Vive le Quebec libre."

The spokesman added that he was unable to say whether any representations had been made to the visiting French party through the French embassy here.

REACTION NOT HAPPY

A senior member of the federal ministry, Trade Minister Winters, told reporters outside the cabinet meeting that his reaction to Gen. de Gaulle's speech in Montreal Monday night was one of "extreme unhappiness."

He added:

"I think everyone feels that way, not limited alone to English Canada."

Mr. Winters said he, like other ministers, is receiving a flood of telegrams and protests.

The de Gaulle remarks have produced a flood-tide of protests to the prime minister's office. As of early today 65 protest telegrams had been received along with many telephone calls. The prime minister's switchboard was still busy.

There were demands that the balance of the French president's Canadian visit be cancelled for his apparent meddling in the touchy domestic situation centring on long-standing demands of a vocal Quebec minority for independent status.

CANCELLATION UNLIKELY

Government officials said it was unlikely the cabinet would cancel the de Gaulle visit to Ottawa Wednesday, but other more subtle diplomatic action was not ruled out.

It was hoped that President de Gaulle would change his tone today.

The French embassy here has been asked to supply the government with a transcript of de Gaulle's remarks in Montreal so officials will know exactly what he did say.

Prime Minister Pearson, who up to early last night was inclined to dismiss what General de Gaulle was saying in Canada as merely a repetition of what he has said before, later was described as "exasperated and angry" over the president's breach of international protocol, in the Montreal speech.

The demonstrations continued for one and a half hours after the president's address.

The theme of independence had returned again and again all day in the speeches President de Gaulle made at organized rallies in the town along the route from Quebec City to Montreal.

DIEFENBAKER:

Stern Reprimand Needed

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said today Prime Minister Pearson should issue a stern reprimand to President de Gaulle and ask him to make no further public speeches while in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who is in Western Canada, said in a statement issued by his office here that Gen. de Gaulle's visit "has degenerated into a situation detrimental to national unity."

This happened while Canadians were celebrating a centennial in amity and accord, he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Pearson "should at once issue a stern reprimand to Gen. de Gaulle, coupled with an admonition that he abstain from further public addresses during the remainder of his stay in Canada."

23 KILLED, HUNDREDS INJURED

Detroit Paralyzed as Troops Move In

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Staff Writer

U.S. Army paratroopers, moving on President Johnson's orders, deployed through riot-torn Detroit today to try to establish civil order.

Police in at least 10 other U.S. cities put down overnight racial violence.

In Detroit, 48 hours of burning, looting and killing left the city paralyzed. Relative calm was restored at dawn as the paratroopers relieved tired national guardsmen.

At least 23 persons had been killed and hundreds of others injured. Sniper fire and destruction sealed the downtown to most commerce. Property damage soared into the hundreds of millions.

The president, speaking Monday night over radio and television, said he had acted only in the face of "indisputable evidence" that the situation could not be controlled locally.

About 1,800 men of the 101st and 82nd Airborne Divisions relieved national guardsmen on the east side and deployed within striking distance of other danger spots.

SITUATION STILL SERIOUS

"Things appear relatively quiet, but the situation is still very serious," said Lt. Gen. John Throckmorton, commander of the paratroopers.

Buses and armored trucks, lightly dimmed in combat readiness, rumbled into the city as deaths and injured mounted.

President Johnson ordered paratroopers to join 7,000 police and national guardsmen duelling for control of the streets with rooftop and doorway snipers.

Camped at an air base minutes from the city were 3,000 more of the troops who were rushed from Kentucky and North Carolina earlier in the day.

As the first waves rolled through streets bathed in the glow of fresh fires set by looters and arsonists, reports came of racial unrest in other Michigan cities.

At nearby Pontiac, two Negroes were shot to death and a sniper's shotgun wounded a policeman.

Three major fires were set in

Press Reverberates To de Gaulle Words

From Times News Services

Following are excerpts from editorials in representative Canadian newspapers on President de Gaulle's visit to Canada:

Toronto Globe and Mail: President Charles de Gaulle of France has come into the country and thrown his weight behind separation in Quebec. . . . For the head of a foreign state to accept the courtesies of a friend and use them to exacerbate a difficult domestic problem is virtually without precedent. . . . How Prime Minister Pearson and his cabinet can undo the damage . . . and at the same time receive Mr. de Gaulle will test the government's diplomatic skills as they have never been tested before. A great deal will depend upon their success. The cause of Canadian unity could be set back far if they fail.

Toronto Star: . . . We must assume that he has deliberately offended and affronted Canada.

If the people of Quebec want liberation (independence) from the rest of Canada, as de Gaulle seems arrogantly to assume, they can have that, too. . . . If Prime Minister Lester Pearson had half as much national and personal pride as President de Gaulle . . . he would cancel the general's scheduled visit to Ottawa tomorrow and advise him to leave Canada immediately. That wouldn't be wise. . . . We trust that Mr. Pearson privately will inform President de Gaulle that his conduct has been rude, tasteless and quite unacceptable.

ing. He had been in Montreal where General de Gaulle was touring Expo but returned hurriedly to attend the emergency meeting.

He is known to be very agitated over de Gaulle's conduct in Quebec and the French president's deliberate meddling in Canadian domestic affairs.

He telephoned Prime Minister Pearson immediately after General de Gaulle shouted the Quebec separatists' slogan from the Montreal balcony. Mr. Martin expressed deep concern over the actions of the French president.

SHARP CONTRAST

A spokesman in Prime Minister Pearson's office said Mr. Pearson was in a "state of heated exasperation." This was in sharp contrast to earlier in the day Monday when spokesmen in the office insisted that Mr. Pearson was "keeping his cool," and after examining what the president was saying now with what he has said before — found little difference in his remarks, but a great difference in the atmosphere in which de Gaulle was saying them.

But that was before General de Gaulle blurted out "long live free Quebec." That changed the entire picture insofar as Prime Minister Pearson was concerned. He is understood to be very annoyed and disturbed.

TWO COURSES

There are at least two courses of action open to the government:

(1) Bluntly and pointedly snub General de Gaulle's arrival in Ottawa, a move that some prominent officials in Ottawa were still saying Tuesday morning was a "possibility" even after the initial indignation had worn off.

(2) Prime Minister Pearson to throw away his original speech of welcome and deliver a carefully worded message in which General de Gaulle would be bluntly told to keep out of Canadian affairs.

The prime minister has demanded transcripts of what General de Gaulle said, including one from the French embassy in Ottawa.

CUBA TRADE MINISTER WELCOMED

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson officially welcomed Cuban Foreign Trade Minister Marcelo Fernandez Font to Canada today and said he hoped the Cuban would have the chance while here to learn about Canada's democratic way of life.

Mr. Fernandez, who arrived Monday, was given a 21-gun salute and a guard of honor from the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Guards, at today's welcoming ceremonies.

diplomatic corps of Canada should be boycotted him completely.

"He would like to be a puppet protector of Quebec. He sees the national wealth of that province as necessary to the economy of France."

"If riots such as occurred in Detroit ever occurred here, de Gaulle could conceivably send in a peace force. Where would our troops enter into it?"

"I don't think I've ever seen such an insult delivered by a visiting dignitary. He's done more to divide this country than any man since the days of Louis Riel."

"It was repulsive and distasteful and I think he should be sent home and boycotted. Waldo Skillings (SC-Victoria) said, "He's just a senile old man; he does it all the time. He's not speaking for France. I read that 56 per cent of the French opposed him on his negotiations with the Arabs. I'm sure more would oppose him on this."

"I would certainly not break bread with him after those kinds of words."

RIDICULOUS, DANGEROUS

President de Gaulle's use of the rallying call of the French-Canadian separatists was a "ridiculous and dangerous" public Works Minister W. N. Chant (SC-Victoria).

"Misunderstanding," even a "serious misunderstanding," is the way he described the effects of Monday night's events.

Here is Ryan's view of the situation:

"What did the general mean? With his usual gift for ambiguous words, General de Gaulle last night dropped a few enigmatic ones from the balcony of city hall, which, if taken at face value, involve him in debate of even the most delicate questions of internal affairs."

"One hesitates to believe that a statesman as prestigious as General de Gaulle would take advantage of a foreign country's hospitality to intrude into its internal affairs."

General de Gaulle undoubtedly intended to refer in the most general way to Quebec's freedom, in the highest sense one can give to such terms.

"He probably did not intend in any way to uphold certain currents of opinion with which his words may seem to have associated him, quite directly.

"No country, not even Quebec delighted as it was to receive the political leader of a well-loved country — would have accepted this on the part of a head of state visiting on its territory."

"Nevertheless, last night, a very deep disquietude reigned in every quarter — disquietude which Pearson's statement at the end of the evening simply echoed.

"One felt himself in the presence of an uncalled for situation, at least in a situation of very serious misunderstanding."

"It will be the general's duty, during the few days which remain of his stay in Canada, to clarify his thinking. He might, with one of these magic formulas he seems to have the secret of, dispel the ambiguity he gave birth to. If he does not do this he will have seriously compromised the fortunate results which everyone, especially French-Canadians, hoped to derive from his visit to Quebec and Canada."

Archbishop Harold Sexton said:

"As a Canadian citizen intent on promoting national unity in this centennial year, I deeply regret and resent the attitude and remarks of General de Gaulle."

"I imagine this feeling will be general throughout our country but we must be careful to point out that we resent the remarks of an unwise individual who, one we see, does not in this case represent the views of the citizens of France."

Would the chambers of Canada, be apt to register a protest? Mr. Haddock said the chamber is "non-political" and he did not know how the board would react.

The de Gaulle statement was upsetting to some members of the French-language association here, L'Alliance Francaise.

Past-president Mrs. K. D. Stone said, "Personally, I'm thinking of resigning. He was invited here by the Canadian government and he was so rude you just can't believe it."

She said she believes she will be able to continue her language studies without any alliance with the French nation.

Surprise interview was with the zone commander of the Royal Canadian Legion which often is quick to defend Canada against any outside attack.

Zone commander Larry Fieldhouse said, "I haven't been following it. I've been busy. I'm not interested in idle gossip."

Then the police sirens would close in, sometimes circling the block on which the ceremony was being held, and building, with the music of the parish guard band, or of a record player, into a crescendo of sound out of which would swell the applause as the tall figure in uniform appeared.

General de Gaulle would thank the local mayor for his words of welcome, "which express the sentiments of all," deliver the latest variation of this basic speech, with immense and moving impact and conviction, sing the Marseillaise, always raising his arms like a conductor at "Aux Armes, Citoyens," and then be off in the miles-long cavalcade toward the next stop.

The response got a tumultuous response, and suggested that the president of France was thoroughly in touch with the finer points of Quebec nationalist rhetoric.

There were occasional surprises. One of the most striking was at Ste Anne de la Perade.

SPANISH HARLEM ON FIRE

Two Puerto Ricans Die in NY Rioting

NEW YORK (AP) — Rioting Puerto Ricans, dodging their own rooftop snipers and police bullets, charged again early today through the slum streets of Spanish Harlem, setting fires and tossed cans of stolen oil and looting neighbors' tiny shops and grocery stores.

Two persons died in the violence.

For the first time since they began early Sunday, the disorders jumped the Harlem River from Manhattan and spread to a largely Puerto Rican section of the Bronx. Looting broke out and a youth was shot in the arm.

More than 1,000 policemen in helmets and steel vests chased roving bands of 2,000 youths through a 125-square block area of Manhattan, taking cover to empty their revolvers at snipers hidden in tenement windows, then thrashing rioters with their nightsticks.

It was full-scale rioting and the worst of three straight nights of lesser disturbances in El Barrio—the neighborhood, in Spanish—was cramped, steamy home to a large segment of the city's 850,000 Puerto Ricans.

And it took a heavy rain at 3 a.m. to do what police found so difficult—get the unruly mobs off the streets and indoors.

The initial outbreak developed shortly after Saturday midnight when Renaldo Rodriguez, a Puerto Rican, was shot dead by one of two off-duty officers he allegedly attacked with a knife.

A 44-year-old Puerto Rican woman, hit by what officers said was a .22-calibre bullet, died shortly after a young Puerto Rican man was found fatally injured with a broken neck. Dozens were injured, including five policemen.

Gleaming paths of shattered glass showed the progress of the riot as it spread from 95th to 121st Street along Third Avenue.

Fire flashed from trash cans on almost every corner, burst from flying gasoline-filled bottles and consumed an ABC television network mobile unit.

DODGE MISSILES

Firemen answered calls through the area stretched out their hoses while skipping away from bottles and rocks thrown from roofs and windows. A policeman was struck flush in the face by one of the brickbats.

NO RACE HATRED DIVIDED LOOTERS

DETROIT (AP) — The large sign chalked in a white spray across the charred doorway read Black Power. But Detroit's second day of violence was aimed not so much at skin color as at color television sets.

In no other riot - sacked city has there been such wholesale co-operation between Negroes and whites queuing up like happy locusts for a running grab at life's luxuries.

Shiny Cadillacs, some 1967 models, some driven by Negroes and some by whites, lined up along Grand River Avenue Monday morning to be stowed with everything from stuffed pandas to dining room tables.

A red-haired white man directed operations as dozens of Negroes disappeared into the murky depths of a furniture store basement, emerging with two portable television sets clutched in each hand.

POLITE LOOTERS

Late Sunday night a happy mob of Negroes and whites busily looted a furniture store politely asked permission from a white homeowner across the street before dragging their stolen plunder through his yard.

Other signs of inter-racial hostility connected with riots were curiously absent.

Whites who dared to drive along Jefferson Avenue in Buffalo seldom escaped without at least one cracked automobile window from a predictable hail of bottles and rocks.

But whites drove up and down Grand River Avenue and 14th Street all day Monday, hanging their heads out of windows, stopping to gawk at looters, and getting only friendly waves from the integrated sidewalk crowds.

RISK MUGGINGS

White reporters risked beatings to enter Tampa's Central Park housing project, but they walked Detroit's streets all day, even without their customary hard helmets, and ran into only mild derision.

Reporters who met hostile stares in Chicago or violence in Watts, found Detroit residents eager to talk about their own problems with the violence.

Unlike Cleveland or San Francisco, or even Harlem in 1964, almost as many people over 25 as under saw "a piece of the action."

Matrons in their 50s leaped nimbly over show windowsills to grab a lamp, an end table or a lightweight chair.

Four men carted a console television halfway across the street, set it down in the center from the huge piles carried by some Negroes.

Police Blame Agitators For Starting Violence

TORONTO (CP) — The only Detroit representative at an international police conference here said Monday he was dumfounded at what was going on in his city. He said he was glad he was not there.

Police from Los Angeles and Newark, N.J.—scenes of major rioting last summer and this year—called for drastic action to prevent or curtail rioting.

One officer predicted that within 15 or 20 years, racial rioting would take place in Toronto.

Speakers at the International Conference of Police Associations blamed a migratory group of agitators, perhaps several hundred strong, for touching off riots which have hit American cities from coast to coast.

The conference sent a telegram to Michigan Governor George Romney commanding his firmness in ordering police to use their guns when necessary.

The president of the New Jersey State Patrolmen's Association, John C. Heffernan, said well-organized migratory bands of troublemakers "are Communists inspired."

He said rioters in New Jersey resorted to savage methods to fight and kill police.

"One constable at Plainfield was sliced up by long slivers of broken glass just as the Mai Mai would have done."

Mr. Heffernan said police tolerance was nearing its limits. He said the day was close at hand when machine-guns would be set up in the streets and rioters shot down by the score.

Not the Voice of Quebec

PRESIDENT DE GAULLE'S BEHAVIOR while a guest in Canada has in terms of diplomatic protocol been inexcusable and in terms of ordinary good manners inexplicable.

For France's head of state to espouse the sentiments of the minority separatist element in Quebec, as he did openly last night in Montreal by shouting "Vive le Québec Libre" from the balcony of the city hall, put him in the position of endorsing a movement which carried to its ultimate conclusion could lead only to the dismemberment of his host country.

One can make excuses for the French president. He had had an exhausting day for a man of his years; his visit had strong emotional overtones both for himself as the undisputed centre of a renaissance of French language and culture in the world and for the people of Quebec whose pride in their French heritage has been revived and strengthened in recent years. Yet even making these allowances, President de Gaulle's judgment of the place of Quebec in the French world was badly mistaken, as was the judgment of those who encouraged him.

What has happened is that President de Gaulle, who does not and cannot speak for the people of Quebec, has severely damaged the relations between both Quebec and France and between Canada as a whole and France—relations which are of great potential benefit to all.

Most Canadians will bitterly resent this interference by a foreign head of state in the affairs of their country, but it is most important that English-speaking Canadians not direct their resentment against French Canadians who are—not with minor exceptions—in any way responsible.

Nor should General de Gaulle's meddling be used as an excuse for Canada to move out of its role as a proper host even to a troublesome guest. We should behave with dignity and correctness in a difficult situation and demonstrate our maturity as a nation—a maturity which is the central Canadian fact blindly overlooked by the French president.

The Shortened Writ

FIVE WEEKS OF DEBATE ON
the Middle East situation in the United Nations General Assembly ended last week in deadlock—and with Soviet diplomacy in a sad state of disarray. One of the salient facts to emerge from the session was that the United States and Russia are still capable of coming to terms with one another despite their serious differences, as was shown in the final moderate resolution put forward by the Soviets after private, behind-the-scenes talks with American diplomats.

But equally important was the demonstration that American-Soviet agreement is not sufficient in itself to assure settlement of important international problems. Despite their enormous military and economic strength, the writ of the super-powers does not run so far and wide as they might have thought.

For the Russians this has been a particularly embarrassing revelation and they attempted to counter it when the General Assembly adjourned by blaming the United States for failure of that body to make any decision. What they could not conceal, however, was that despite their championing of the Arab cause, their supplying of arms and other aid which provoked the latest Middle East war, the Russians so far have not been able to dictate to their allies.

The moderate proposal worked out in agreement with the United States, after Russia had failed diplomatically to obtain outright condemnation of Israel, accepted the thesis that every UN member in the area should have the right to maintain an independent state of its own and to live in peace and security. This declaration was the price the Soviets were prepared to pay for a resolution calling on Israel to vacate the territory it gained during the war—but the price was too high for the Arab states, particularly Algeria and Syria, although Egypt was reported initially to favor some kind of compromise. Once again the situation is back to where it was five weeks ago with the Arab states adamant that Israel must be punished and the Israelis as firm as ever that they will not move out of Arab territory until their foes enter into direct negotiations with them.

The problem now goes back to the Security Council and, while there is no reason for optimism that a settlement can be secured in that body, the important point to be watched is whether the Russian will to compromise has survived the General Assembly rebuff by the Arabs—whether, that is, the Soviet Union wants to and is able to curb its militant allies and dependents.

Digging the Dust of the Western Past

AS the present grows dingier, darker and more bloodstained, it becomes more and more tempting to escape into the hopeful dawn-time of human civilization. And as the archeologists wield their spades with more and more know-how and vigor, escape becomes more easy, too.

Consider for example, the widely publicized new discovery made on the island of Thera that has just been made by a Greek-American team headed by Prof. Spyridon Marinatos. Something like 3,400 years ago, this fertile Aegean island literally blew up, with a volcanic explosion surpassing the explosion of Krakatoa, which darkened the skies and brightened the sunsets of the whole globe for a year thereafter.

The accompanying earthquakes and tidal waves overwhelmed the last and highest stage of the old Minoan culture on Crete. This vast event—the nearly total destruction of the first high culture of the West—is in fact remembered in the Atlantis myth. And now, on Thera, under 40 feet of thickly piled volcanic ash, Prof. Marinatos, Prof. Emily Vermeule and their co-workers have found what seems to be the chief town and perhaps the palace of the Minoan prince of Thera.

This promises to be a sensational discovery for two reasons that did not get into the news stories. What has been found, to begin with, is not the sad, charred stump of a palace, as at Knossos or Phaistos or Mallia or Kato-Zakro. What has been found instead appears to be something instead a Minoan Pompeii or Herculaneum, which will yield to the diggers' spades the whole life pattern of this ancient culture with which Western civilization began.

Nor is that all. We have never known who these Minoans were, or what their language was. In their last high phase, they used a script the experts call Linear-A, which appears on a few clay tablets—too few, by far, for practical decipherment. But with any luck at all, the whole clay tablet archive of the Thera Palace should now come to light in the end. And there will surely be an answer to one of the most bitterly argued questions concerning the remote Western past.

Yet this great discovery at Thera is really less sensational—it had indeed been predicted for a good many years—than some others that have not made headlines. Consider, to begin with, the Tartaria tablets, found at a site of that of the Romanian archeologist, Dr. Vlasse.

These have really set the prehistoric by the ears; for these tablets from what appears to be a deep sacrificial pit are covered with signs that can only be writing. And this is writing at the wrong time, and in the wrong place.

Dawn of Civilization

All prehistorians have always agreed that the dawn of civilization occurred in the Middle East, in the Tigris-Euphrates basin and delta. Here, too, all have agreed, was the first writing—the protocuneiform on the tablets from Jemdet Nasr and Uruk, with a date a bit before 3000 B.C. But the Tartaria tablets, with their not dissimilar signs, come from Southeastern Europe and have a carbon-14 date a bit before 4000 B.C.

Nothing, one might suppose, could be more disconcerting. But in fact the explorers of the remote human past have been even more disconcerted by the discovery of what can only be called a very primitive city at the Mound of Turkey. The discoverer was the English archeologist, James Mellaart, who has just published a book about it.

Catal Huyuk bristles with firsts, all of them three millennia and more too early by the normal reckoning. The city began before 6000 B.C. The people made pottery—although the rich preferred their more luxurious wooden vessels, as rich people nowadays prefer porcelain to plastic. They also smelted lead and perhaps copper, although they used obsidian for weapons and metal only very rarely and exclusively for jewelry.

They had a complex cult, and their temples display the world's first architecture, with frescoes, clay-sculptures in low and high relief and an established vocabulary of ornament. (One item in

Home Nursing

Congratulations to Mrs. Patterson for her article on Home Nursing Services. I am sure that a far greater effort should and could be made to give a lift to home nursing care. I offer here two suggestions among the many problems posed:

First: The training in school hours, from Grade 9 up, of a recognized Corps of Home-Keepers, both boys and girls, to help run the usual household of the sick-at-home person, especially of the wage earner or mother. I am not here overlooking the wonderful Home Makers service organized by the Red Cross Society, but I would like to see it extended to call on a larger group of helpers and to cater for a wider category of needs. These duties would run from gardening and on-the-spot repairs, to shopping, cooking and child minding.

Second: I would like to see one policy for all home nursing in the province. At present, as I understand it, home nursing care in B.C. is provided by two bodies. One is the Victorian Order of Nurses, operating in some (but not all) areas of larger cities, and the other is the Public Health Service which covers all the rest of the province where home nursing care is provided. Wouldn't it be better to have just one authority for home nursing, paid in our local taxes, or is this impracticable? — Mrs. Elizabeth B. Beguin, 1545 Arrow.

Looking Back

From The Times of July 25, 1967:

A disastrous fire broke out early in the city yesterday afternoon ravaged and burned for over five hours, destroying over $100,000 of buildings and property.

About 250 persons have been left homeless by the fire. No fatalities were suffered.

Lack of water hampered firemen in fighting the fire and the fire department has come under severe criticism for its inability to cope with the outbreak.

Mayor Morley said today an investigation will be held.

AN AGE FOR CRAFTSMEN

"The role of the craftsman is even greater in an age of mechanization than before mechanization. This sounds a curious paradox, but it is nevertheless true. The machine depends still entirely upon the hand-craftsman. The machine cannot turn out a standard, unless that standard is set by man. The man really says what the machine can do, and all mass-produced things are going to be good or bad according to the standards set by the hand-craftsman who designs for the machine."

—Cyril Wood, Director of the Crafts Council of Great Britain, speaking in the BBC World Service program "Here and Now."

MAN IN HIS ELEMENT

Man has need of direct personal relationship with his natural surroundings in which he can enjoy the grandeur and the richness of land and sea, and feel the force of the elements. A man is only half a man who cannot exist in a storm on a moor, or a mountain top, or on the sea, or be enraptured at the sight of a brown squirrel on the garden wall, or a fox in the field. Without such things I believe we shall lose contact with the source of all fresh inspiration.

'The Modern World Cannot Be Conquered, Converted or Governed by Anyone'

By WALTER LIPPmann

From Gstaad, Switzerland

The first of special monthly essays planned by Mr. Lippmann to replace the widely-read regular columns he discontinued some weeks ago.

This is a cardinal fact of the modern age. The failure to appreciate it is why both Washington and Moscow have been the victims of such great miscalculations. Because of these miscalculations they have committed themselves to policies that they have been and probably will continue to be unable to carry out.

Accompanying this demonstration of the political limitations of the superpowers there has been an almost embarrassing demonstration of the ineffectiveness, indeed the irrelevance, of the intervention of the great powers of the second grade.

Power Failures

China is unable to protect North Vietnam. Great Britain is disregarded not only by the pygmies, but by the superpowers. France is unable to make a move of any political consequence either in Indochina or in the Middle East. We are faced with the fact that there is a radical disconnection between little nations which have emerged since the Second World War and the great powers which once ruled them and gave a certain order to the world.

We have not yet understood and learned how to come to terms with the new power relations of the postwar, postimperialistic modern age. In Washington and Moscow, in Paris and London the basic assumption of the leading men they were united, or one of two great powers possessing the will, could put the world in order again. In the last analysis each of the great powers believes in the paramount political influence of material power.

The United Nations was formed by men who thought that the wartime alliance of Great Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States and, by courtesy, of France and China would police the world in the future. This hope was dashed because Britain, France and China were not really great powers and because the Soviet Union and the United States became engaged in the cold war.

Shattered Concept

The original United Nations was inspired by the belief then held in the Western world that the United States, plus Winston Churchill's Great Britain, could compel the Soviet Union to cooperate in the government of the world. But Great Britain lost control of her empire, which became the theatre of great disorders. The Soviet Union lost effective control over its satellites. The United States found itself unable to rule the world in Asia, Africa or South America.

Yet always the dream of world government by the great powers has haunted the foreign offices much as the ghost of the Roman Empire haunted the Middle Ages. The critical problem of the contemporary world is that we have not found any substitute for that ghost—for the memory of the imperial order in which the great powers once governed the world. The practical problem of our time is how, since the great powers cannot govern the world, they can coexist with each other and with the anarchy of the small nations which have emerged from the ancient imperial order of the world.

That exceedingly discerning military thinker, Gen. Beaufeuille, wrote some time ago that the great powers with their nuclear weapons and their enormous economic resources no longer dare to make war against one another, and yet they are unable to make peace with one another.

Not only the Middle East and Vietnam, but Cuba and Nigeria, the Sudan and Cyprus testify both to the political impotence of the great powers and to the anarchy among the smaller nations. I do not think there is any instant solution for this predicament. After all, there was no "solution" for the disorders of the Middle Ages.

Virtue of Prudence

In such a time of troubles as this one the supreme virtue of statesmen is prudence. Which means the art of navigating along a rocky coast in a stormy sea. For this they must forsake grandiose policies, such as fighting for universal peace or fighting to remake the civilization of Asia and Africa.

They must recognize the limitations of their powers, and while they cannot and will not withdraw into isolation, they must avoid ideological interventions, even when these interventions contain or mask some pseudoimperialist objective such as making a military lodgment on the shores of distant continents.

For good or evil, the modern world cannot be conquered or converted, or governed by anyone. The world is not one, but many.

'The Modern World Cannot Be Conquered, Converted or Governed by Anyone'

WE may be sure that Moscow did not encourage Gamal Abdel Nasser in order to punish the United States for what it is doing in Vietnam. Life is more complicated than that. But there is a connection between Vietnam and the Middle East, and I believe that the American preoccupation with Vietnam led the Soviet government to make a giant miscalculation.

Moscow's initial judgment was correct enough. The United States was entangled in an unpopular war in Vietnam that the Johnson administration would not or could not move quickly or easily, if it moved at all, to go to the aid of Israel. The unwillingness of Washington to become involved in another police action was quite evident, and on this score Soviet intelligence was sound.

The Soviet error was not about Washington, but about Cairo. If, as Nasser thought and Moscow allowed itself to believe, the Arab allies could destroy Israel in a few days, the Soviet policy would have paid off. The Arabs would have got rid of Israel, and the Soviet Union, as the special supporter and friend of the Arabs, would have become the predominant power in the Middle East.

It was the Israelis, and the Israelis alone, who upset Moscow's calculations, who dashed Moscow's hopes and spared Washington. The horrid dilemma of engaging in another and more dangerous Vietnamese war or of abandoning Israel. The Soviet miscalculation was due to

BUSINESS VIEWS

No Labor Lack In B.C. Mining

BY AB KENT
Business Editor

Two studies that will have a bearing on the future of employment in Canada's mining industry are due to be completed in the next two months.

The first, being prepared for a group of mining companies and the Mining Association of Canada, deals with the possibility of bringing in South Koreans to help relieve a labor shortage.

For a year there has been no sign of a labor shortage in British Columbia mining, at least not as far as the mines department is concerned.

What has been in short supply to some extent is the trained or professional mining worker, such as engineers, geologists and technicians.

The trend toward bench and open pit mining operations in this province has to a considerable degree done away with the need of traditional underground mining skills.

As deputy mines minister Ken Blaskey points out, the men who dig ore these days are "dirt movers" rather than miners.

They require skills usually possessed by heavy construction workers, performing their tasks with such giant pieces of equipment as seven and nine-yard power shovels, rock-hauling "ukes" and ore-carrying trucks.

They bore their powder holes in the relative safety of the sunlit surface rather than deep in the earth's innards, where they must use their skill, common sense and intuition every working moment to avert accident and, sometimes, disaster.

B.C. has vast open pit copper, molybdenum, iron, asbestos and limestone mining operations and has made a start on substantial coal stripping.

Many of the recoverable ores today would be uneconomic to mine conventionally, that is by sinking shafts, running drifts, raises, slopes and stopes.

Hence the trend toward surface mining wherever it is physically possible. It is fast and cheap and requires a smaller work force.

* * *

But underground activity still plays an important role in mining generally in this country, perhaps more noticeably in the east, where there would seem to be demand for imported labor.

Some of the leading companies in Canada have brought from overseas and the U.S. some skilled personnel to work in the mining industry.

In the first quarter of 1967, 68 alien miners were given the status of landed immigrants.

* * *

The second study will be delivered to Canada's ministers of mines at their annual meeting being held in September, this year in Regina. It is the first national study of its kind, co-sponsored by the Canadian Institute of Mines and Metallurgy.

This study will be more comprehensive, dealing with all levels of manpower in the mining industry, and will permit the industry to look ahead to 1975.

The question is whether Carter proposals — from which there is at least an interim period of freedom — will obscure the picture as far as future needs are concerned.

If the fears of some mining men are borne out, manpower requirements in the next decade may be minimal.

Rumors of the sale of Victoria Machinery Depot have been cropping up regularly, some of them from inside sources.

One set of mongers favors Boeing Company as the purchaser; another is aligned with Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

VMD president Harold Husband has not bothered to deny these rumors, believing that a denial recognizes the original statement.

But both Boeing and Lockheed executives are quick to reject the idea that they have made any such deal, or that they have considered it.

W. R. Wilson, vice-president of public relations at Lockheed headquarters in Burbank said Monday, "There is no interest on our part."

In fact, after asking others near the top of his company, Mr. Wilson said he was not acquainted with VMD's shipbuilding and industrial facility.

J. Bruce Smith, president of Kelowna Investments Ltd., and R. B. Wilson, of Victoria, are the two remaining members of the board.

Before depreciation and write-off of pre-production expenses, the earnings were reported as $739.59.

Russian Mining Project Impresses Canadian Party

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's mining industry is closely watching developments at Russia's northern mines to determine whether they can be applied to Canada's far north, the board chairman of Bethlehem Copper Corp. said after a three-week tour of Russian mines.

J. A. McLallen said Monday the Russians have built a complete mining complex north of the 69th parallel, at the city of Norilsk, where daily mill production is about 50,000 tons he counted 15 huge shovels and 20 drills alongside an eight-mile open pit.

"If one shovel broke down, there was another one ready to take its place."

The abundance was also evident in concentrating and smelting areas, he said.

"They would use buildings equal to one third of a mile to do what we would do in North America in three city blocks."

He said their research facil-

ties are complete and up to date, equaling anything available in North America.

"It took us a whole day to tour one lab complex. And at the Leningrad Nickel Research Institute they could process 1,200 tons of experimental ore a day. They employ 2,000 people and have 35 labs."

GOVERNMENT IN CONTROL

All the mines, research facilities, and production equipment are government owned.

The miners live in government apartments. The government provides budgets for prospecting, research and development.

"The law clearly states that no citizen may own any means of production, nor own any land," said Mr. McLallen.

Wherever possible, every phase of production is carried out at the site.

"That includes smelting and refining, and in some instances, manufacturing of the finished product. They try to save transportation costs wherever possible," said Mr. McLallen.

"Some mines do custom smelting. For instance, at a place called Ordzhonikidze, they do smelting for 21 different mines. There is even ore coming in from the mid-Pacific, but we were unable to learn from exactly where."

The appeal ruling stated that the four were not employees and were excluded from the bargaining unit which represents Victoria Civic Employees.

Three of the men work in the city planning department while Mr. Gross is project manager for the Rose-Blanshard Urban Renewal Scheme.

Sockeye Salmon Returns Heavy

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 1967 sockeye salmon season has reaped high returns in its first week of operation, a federal fisheries department spokesman says.

W. R. Houston, Pacific director of fisheries, said high returns have been reported from the Skeena and Rivers Inlet areas with some gillnetters averaging 600 sockeye a day for a value of about $1,100.

Operating expense dropped from $17.41 per ton the first quarter to $12.60 in the last three months, excluding depreciation, depletion and bond interest.

An independent examiner is looking into the mine's financial requirements.

Mr. McLallen said that at $100,000 gross, while earnings before write-off and pre-production expenses nearly doubled.

Mr. Jewitt said the mill has operated at rates as high as 1,050 tons of ore per day, but metallurgical problems were encountered in the second quarter resulting in lower grades and temporary elimination of bulk concentrates.

'GOD HELP US'

U.K. Medicare Called Failure

Medicare in Britain has failed, Senator Wallace McCutcheon said here Monday afternoon.

"God help us if medicare is made law in Canada on July 1, 1968," the former cabinet minister told Victoria Gyro Club in the Empress Hotel.

He said Britain's medicare is being bolstered by doctors from the Orient because British doctors are leaving the country and no European doctor wants to go there.

"Now, after 19 years of cradle-to-grave welfare in England, we are told there are millions of children living in poverty."

"Even the left-wing leaders of the British Labor Party are beginning to question this doctrine of universality as compared with selectivity. Canada is in a much better position economically compared to the United Kingdom but 'universality could be disastrous for us,' too."

DEFINITE TREND

Senator McCutcheon said there is a definite trend towards Socialism in Canada and some cabinet ministers are alleged to "both to the right and left" of the Liberal Party.

Senator McCutcheon said Canadian business have "more influence than they think they have" in arresting the drift towards socialism.

"I don't think the people know what is going on in Ottawa. I don't think they know of the federal government's intrusion into provincial fields, or of its blackmail to force provincial governments to adopt schemes which may be inapplicable in many areas."

Senator McCutcheon said the

Father Charged With Vicious Child Assault

TORONTO (CP)—An 11-year-old girl was thrown down a flight of cellar stairs, hung upside down from a beam, and beaten with chains July 22, Crown counsel William Babe said in court Monday.

Police said the girl had disobeyed an order to stay away from a neighborhood wading pool.

The Crown counsel asked Magistrate Lucien Kurata to set bail at $1,000 for the girl's father, charged with assault causing bodily harm.

The accused was remanded for one week. No names were made public.

Fall '68 or Spring '69 Election

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Canada's next federal election will come in the fall of 1968 or the spring of 1969, says Senator Wallace McCutcheon of Toronto.

And when it does the Conservative party will take over.

As a contender for the national leadership of the Conservative party, Senator McCutcheon is bound to take the people's view. But he insists there are many signs the Canadian people are getting tired of the Liberal government in Ottawa.

"We have seen this government becoming a master of the people instead of a servant of the people," he said in a Times interview.

"We have seen our so-called welfare plans spread so thin that the people who should be helped are losing out. There is a positive view. But he insists versity in all our welfare programs.

"This government believes the individual must be computerized, classified, given a number and fed into a machine. I believe the people of Canada will revolt against this kind of thing."

Senator McCutcheon declined to discuss provincial politics except to say that he approved of the B.C. government ferries.

"Unification of the three level may be desirable; I question the advisability of unification at the combat level where tradition has a powerful influence.

Asked what he thought of integrating Canada's armed forces, the senator replied:

Bennett Says Way Is Clear For Crossing

Premier Bennett said Monday his part in negotiations for a new crossing over Burrard Inlet is finished.

In an interview, Mr. Bennett said all that remains to be done now is for Vancouver and the North Shore municipalities to conclude an agreement with the federal government on the type of crossing and where the crossing will be constructed.

In a telegram sent last Thursday Mr. Bennett confirmed for Prime Minister Pearson that the provincial government would give a grant of $27,000,000 towards the cost of the crossing.

The cost of the crossing has been estimated at about $100,000,000.

Mr. Pearson said in a wire arrangements for the approaches to the crossing would have to be made in B.C.

"No meetings are necessary. Our position is clear," Mr. Bennett said. "Mayor Campbell should be down in Ottawa right now signing an agreement. What is holding them back?"

Dief Fishes In Troubled Waters

NELSON (CP)—Stripped to his undershirt and with his feet resting on the stern of a boat, John Diefenbaker fished the waters of Kootenay Lake near this south central B.C. city Monday.

The career of Parliament and his role as leader of the Opposition forgotten for a short while, the Progressive Conservative chief confined his deliberations for most of the day to the relative merits of the lures and baits in his tackle box.

The day was not uneventful. First, Mr. Diefenbaker ran into trouble when his favorite reel jammed.

There was a brief flurry of excitement when a short circuit in the boat wiring caused a cloud of smoke to pour from the instrument panel and the motor failed to start.

Host Ivan Horie aimed a fire extinguisher into the affected area, dousing the source of the trouble. He called for assistance from an accompanying craft and quickly repaired the damage.

Shortly after the excursion began, Mr. Diefenbaker doffed his sport shirt and sat soaking up the sun in his undershirt. He leaped from his position when the first fish, a medium-size silver trout, struck, and displayed his talent for bringing the fish to the boat.

He caught two more during the day.

Mr. Diefenbaker returned to the Fairmont Hot Springs Lodge near Radium, on the Alberta border in the early evening.

Take a telephone poll and find the Killeen family tree

Telephony has become a happy family affair for the Killeens of the British Columbia Telephone Company.

When T. Patrick Killeen became a part of the B.C. Telephone Company family, it was in his mind that telephone work eventually might become a Killeen family affair.

But even he wouldn't have believed then the degree to which this happened.

Pat Killeen joined B.C. Telephone in 1930, just a few months before his first son was born. It was a time of depression. Jobs were scarce and Pat, like many others of that era, believed he'd be able to help his offspring find employment if he could catch on with a larger company and do a good job.

The depression was past before his sons grew up and, while Pat's experience strengthened his belief that B.C. Telephone offered a fine future for his sons, he became determined that they should not become telephone men until they were prepared to appreciate what it meant.

Dad Said No

That's why, when his eldest son, Donald, was ready to go to work, Pat refused to let him apply right off for employment with B.C. Telephone.

"I told him to try something else first so he'd recognize a good job when he got one," the senior Mr. Killeen recalls.

Donald did that, trying three other lines of work before he became a telephone man in 1948. William Killeen also tried other fields before joining B.C. Telephone in 1951 and T. Patrick Killeen Jr. went the same route before his telephone career began in 1959.

Today, the younger Killeens concur unanimously with their father, who says: "Every one of us is completely happy about it."

The Killeens make up one of the largest family units among B.C. Telephone's employees. There are other family groups, of course, and in a sense they are all related, for as telephone people, they are members of a much larger family—the B.C. Telephone family, which now numbers more than 7,200 men and women who, like the Killeens, are finding security, happiness and opportunity in one of the world's most fascinating industries.

Friends and Neighbors

They all are contributing their skills to the very large variety of skills required to build, operate and maintain B.C. Telephone's $485 million communications network which now serves more than 770,000 telephones.

And they are B.C. Telephone's most important asset—people; people who provide the communications services so vital to British Columbia's growth and progress, doing so efficiently, effectively and unobtrusively.

They are even more than that. They are your neighbors and your friends; perhaps your alderman or school trustee or volunteer fireman or Red Feather canvasser or Little League coach.

They are British Columbians.

MEET THE KILLEENS

The Killeens—father and three sons—are employed in four different areas of B.C. Telephone's vast and growing communications system.

T. Patrick Sr., 58, is an installation and repair foreman in Richmond. Donald, 36, is a construction foreman in Prince George. William, 35, is a construction methods foreman in Burnaby. And T. Patrick Jr., 26, is a central office maintenance man in Vancouver where he helps keep telephone exchange equipment operating efficiently. Pat Sr. was born in Nanaimo. His three sons were born in Vancouver, as was his daughter, Kathleen.

Father and three sons have accumulated more than 75 years of service with B.C. Telephone. The figure exceeds 100 years when the service of Kathleen and that of the wives of Pat Sr. and Bill, who also worked for the company, are included. And the figure may go a whole lot higher—for Pat Sr. now has nine young grandchildren.

No Return To Tories —Bennett

Premier Bennett said Monday he is a "100 per cent Social Crediter" and is not thinking of any kind of a merger between the national Social Credit party and the Progressive Conservatives.

He was replying to reporters' questions concerning Alberta Premier Manning's new book, Political Realignment, A Challenge to Thoughtful Canadians, which is reported to favor such a merger.

Mr. Bennett said he has not read the book, which is to be published around the end of the month.

"I'm a Social Crediter first, last and all the time federally and provincially, and around the world," the premier said.

"When I left the Tories and walked across the floor it was to form a government which would bring great expansion and growth and great prosperity to the people of this province," he said. "I walked out of coalition and I'm not going back."

The premier left the Progressive Conservative party in 1951 to take over the Social Credit provincial leadership. The party replaced a coalition government that year and has been in power ever since.

Time Limit Asked On Restrictions

Subdivision restrictions on properties of less than five acres are a blow against the rights of ratepayers, says Central Saanich Coun. Margaret Salt.

Coun. Salt was commenting on the recently passed Central Saanich bylaw designed to slow down small subdivisions until the Regional District sewage disposal plan comes into being. It has been estimated the bylaw will be effective for less than six months.

But Coun. Salt says no time limit has been placed on the bylaw.

She said such a law may be necessary for a municipality expecting expansion but claimed that a definite time limit should be set.

Historic Items Sought By Saanich

Long-time Saanich residents have been asked to help the municipality collect its history.

Old photographs, diaries and record books are required either as gifts, on loan, or for copying.

The project is headed by Mrs. Joanne Morrison, secretary to Reeve Hugh Curtis, and licence inspector Roy Wootten.

Victoria launched a similar project recently under the jurisdiction of Ainslie Helmcken, a grandson of one of B.C.'s pioneer doctors and legislators.

Promoters Depending On U.S. Cash

Promoters of a $1.5 million shopping centre development for north Shelburne near Ruby are counting on American financing because of "tight money" in Canada.

Jack Aceman, of Aceman Investments, Vancouver, today said that since receiving final Saanich approval of the scheme three weeks ago, the company is awaiting an application to participate from American investors.

He said his firm's investment would be the only local money involved and that the senior financing would likely be from the U.S.

Mr. Aceman complained of the lack of local sources of major financing for this type of project.

Although "plans are not finalized," the project will consist of between 75,000 and 80,000 square feet of building on a maximum 6.5 acres of land just north of Ruby Road, east of Shelburne.

An architect is preparing sketches and plans now. These should be ready in a month, Mr. Aceman said.

Included in the project besides retail stores will be office accommodation and service businesses.

A further proposal to erect a garden apartment development flanking the west side of Shelburne was rejected by Saanich council.

Three Victoria cyclists were reported to be in Dryden, Ont., over halfway to their destination, Expo.

Susan Schmuck, sister of one of the trio, said today the boys will return to Victoria by car.

CORONERS ORDERED TO HIDE MISTAKES

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman, former chief coroner for Metropolitan Toronto, told the Parker royal commission Monday that Ontario coroners were ordered during the 1950s not to tell the public about doctors' mistakes.

Dr. Shulman said Dr. Smiley Lawson, then supervising coroner, issued the order and made sure it was obeyed. Dr. Lawson died in December, 1963.

"Our instructions were, and I quote: 'If a doctor makes a mistake, take him into a back room and give him hell, but don't tell the public!'" Dr. Shulman said that many times in his early years as a Toronto coroner he tried to hold inquests into hospital deaths, but couldn't because of Dr. Lawson's directive.

Dr. Shulman said he never mentioned the directive before because he would have been fired. He said he wanted to keep his job so he could ultimately become chief coroner and have the power "to wipe out this corruption."

Counsel for Dr. Shulman was accused of trying to broaden the terms of the commission and replied that an inquest six years ago might have prevented two more deaths from the same cause.

PAY MORE FOR SUBSIDIZED SCHOOL MEALS

Britain Boosts Family Allowances

LONDON (CP) — The British government threw another £58,000,000 ($174,000,000) into the welfare kitty Monday.

It gave with one hand and took with the other. Family allowances were boosted by an estimated £83,000,000 a year. Charges to families for subsidized school meals were raised by an offsetting £25,000,000.

The net of £58,000,000 will not be felt fully until the 1968-69 fiscal year starting next April 6, although part of the extra expense will take hold in October and be charged against the current budget. The original budget spending was estimated at about £15,500,000,000.

Existing family allowance payments will be almost doubled. The increase will be an estimated £69,000 families with 1,000,000 children.

All told, family allowances aid paid on about 6,000,000 children in 3,750,000 families.

Cubs' Ray the Culp-rit As Chicago Stops Cards

Ray Culp has parlayed a change of scenery and a change of pace into a change of direction ... for himself and the non-stop Chicago Cubs.

The former Philadelphia fireballer who learned to pull the string on his fastball while sitting at Leo Durocher's elbow, pitched the Cubs back into a share of the National League lead Monday night with a five-hit 3-1 victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

The victory, ninth for the Cubs in their last 11 games, pulled them even with the Cardinals going into tonight's second game of a three-game summit series at St. Louis.

Houston Astros nipped Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 in 11 innings behind the two-hit pitching of Mike Cuellar and Los Angeles Dodgers shaded Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 in Monday's only other major league action.

Culp, who won seven games for the Phillies last season, squared his 1967 record at 8-8 by pitching out of a sixth-inning rain delay and then knocking off the last nine Cardinals he faced.

Culp talked the Phillies into a winter deal that sent him to Chicago for a left-hander Dick Ellsworth with a "trade me" ultimatum last October.

The Cubs broke in front against St. Louis starter Larry Jaster in the second inning when Ron Santo singled, Ernie Banks doubled home a run and, after a walk and Clarence Jones' infield hit filled the bases, reliever Jack Lambeau walked another run across.

Singles by Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams plus Santo's run-scoring ground out boosted the lead to 3-0 in the fifth.

Cuellar, who struck out 12, including five of the first seven men he faced, gave up a bad-hop double by Cookie Rojas in the fifth inning, then held the Phils hitless until Bill White singled in the 11th.

The Houston southpaw also scored the winning run in the bottom of the 11th, drawing a walk and moving around to third on a sacrifice and an error before Jim Wynn's single broke the 1-1 deadlock.

Jim LeFebvre's run-scoring single in the ninth lifted the Dodgers past the Pirates after they had wiped out a 3-0 Pittsburgh lead. Dick Schofield, who had three hits, doubled a run home in the fifth and scored on Willie Davis' single to tie it 3-3.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canada, shut out of the medal parade on the opening day of the fifth Pan-American Games, won't win anything today, either.

That's not a pessimistic forecast—no medals are at stake in today's events.

The United States won both shooting medals contested Monday—the individual and team awards in free pistol competition.

The best Canada could do was eighth in the team event.

In the individual shooting, Harry Hickey of Toronto was 20th. McMahon won two free-pistol silver medals in the Pan-Am Games in Sao Paulo, Brazil, in 1963.

Herschel Anderson of the U.S. became the first gold medal winner at the fifth

Games and the first double winner.

In addition to earning his individual award, he shot with his country's team.

Games records fell in both categories. The U.S. team broke their old record by one point in rolling up 2,171 points.

From point standpoint, Sgt. Arnold Vitarbo of the U.S. team fired 554 out of a possible 600 to break the individual games mark.

'Think Of Money I've Lost'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Lee Roddie's eight-story hotel in downtown Los Angeles has remained empty for 34 years now. All the while Mrs. Roddie, 70, has paid the taxes. In disclosing this Sunday, Mrs. Roddie said she had decided to ask that her hotel be torn down.

"Father made a terrible mistake," she said. "He failed to put in an elevator or stairs."

"There's been no way to get to the rooms, or to get from floor to floor."

The hotel carries no name, although it was originally built as an annex to the once fashionable Alexandria Hotel.

Because it was joined to the Alexandria, there was no need for elevators or stairways. Later it was sealed off.

Reminiscing Mrs. Roddie, a widow: "I would have loved to have operated the hotel as a going business all these years. Think of the money I've lost."

Man, Wife Yachting Crew Trying for World Honors

A local yachtman and his wife, Robin and Jill Spear, 103 View Royal, set out Monday for Kingston, Ont., to represent Esquimalt Squadron, Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association, in the sixth international world championship 420 association sailing races, to be held there August 2 to 6.

With his wife as crew, Robin Spear is the first of the local squadron to represent the RCNSA in a world championship series. He won the right after successfully competing in a club series.

His sailing experience goes back to 1947 when he began sailing the Firefly in England. An expert dinghy sailor, he

SAUCERS ELUSIVE

LONDON (AP)—Reports of flying saucers over wide areas of Europe have been investigated by the British government, but "nothing of definite interest has been found," Parliament was told Monday. Unidentified flying objects looking like fireballs were reported seen in several European countries last week.

was team captain for London University in 1957 and a member of the English Universities team which defeated the Americans.

The Kingston regatta will see 80 boats in competition, 47 of these being allotted to Canada and the U.S.A. Also competing will be crews from Belgium, Denmark, France, West Germany, Italy, the Irish Republic, Israel, Sweden, Switzerland, and the United Kingdom.

COST UNDERWRITTEN

The RCNSA has underwritten the Spears' expenses as the club's centennial project. Boats will be provided but each crew must supply their own sails. In order to back up the Spears, club officials have purchased a new jib, mainsail and spinnaker from England.

The 420, designed and built in France, is approximately 14 feet (420 centimetres), lively in performance and well-liked in international circles. In addition to competing in 420s (the RCNSA have 13 at Esquimalt) both Robin and his wife are active El Toro frostbite competitors.

If the Spears win the world championship, it will be the first time that the laurels have come to North America. France has captured the crown in the previous five sailouts.

Hosting the Kingston regatta will be the Royal Military College and the Kingston Yacht Club. On completion of the six-race series the European competitors will tour Expo 67 before going home.

Unsuspected Talent Found In Young Movie Starlet

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Movie Reviewer

HOLLYWOOD—Would you believe a young woman from Louisiana could imitate Mr. Good Evening Kelly, the once-famous B.C. newscaster?

I wouldn't before I met Sherry Boucher, petite movie starlet at the Universal Studio.

After hearing my very impromptu impersonation of Mr. Kelly and learning that he was a transplanted Australian, Miss Sherry lowered her voice a couple of octaves and exploded:

"Good Evening! We present today's news, with a special greeting to a grand old lady of 95 who still reads without glasses!"

CRIBBENS IMITATION

Over the teacups, Miss Sherry tried taking off Victoria comedian Jerry Gosley, but this wasn't so successful. She went on to imitate English, Irish, Scots and people from Down South.

Then she imitated me and it sounded horribly like a garden roller trundled over a basement floor.

Surprisingly, no one around the studio seemed to know Miss Sherry was a mimic. They had her typed as an "ingenue" playing in a series called Run For Your Life (Channel 6, Saturday, 7:30 p.m.)

"I sort of collect voices," she said, "but I don't want to make them ridiculous—I love all kinds of people."

Miss Sherry came to Hollywood only seven weeks ago. But she's been dancing, singing and acting since she was 12 and has travelled widely with a repertory company.

"That's the hardest school of all," she said. "What of the future?"

Planting Time Now For Christmas Rose

By JACK BEASTALL

The cherished Christmas-rose of local gardens is a buttercup, not a rose. Its botanical name is Helleborus (hel-le-bo-rus); its common name hellibore (hel-lebore), and it is only one of 10 cultivated species within the genus.

Since seedlings occur wherever the plants are growing happily, there are many variations in flower colors, some of which have become horticulturally named varieties.

The reason for drawing attention to the hellebores in July is because the time is drawing near for planting new acquisitions or moving plants already in the garden.

These plants make most of their growth immediately after flowering and the time for planting or transplanting is when this active growth period ceases. So we can move them in late summer, that is during August.

Hellebores prefer a deeply prepared, fertile, fairly moist soil. Clay or heavy loam is best if well worked with compost or well rotted manure.

Arthur Mayse

On this side we have Montreal's good Mayor Jean Drapeau with his earnest assurances that Expo has done much to cement Canadian unity. On the other, Quebec's "Prime Minister" Daniel Johnson seems deliberately bent on destroying any last remaining shred of unity between English and French-speaking Canadians.

Which man, which viewpoint, most truly represents the province that produced both spokesmen?

Eventually, I suppose we will have an answer to that question, and with it a clearer view of our future as a nation than we now possess.

As a Canadian — and an angry one today — I would be all for making do as best we can without the problem province, were it not for Jean Drapeau and those of his stamp. Builders and progressives, workers within Confederation, they are New World men second to none in their will toward a firm and continuing union.

In the long run, if we in English-speaking Canada refrain from losing our heads and forcing an issue, I believe that such men as these will prevail over Quebec's reactionaries, separatists and Francophiles.

You may consider that view unduly optimistic in a week which brings us the uniquely distasteful spectacle of a European head of state doing his spiteful best to further alienate one Canadian province from its neighbors.

This while Premier Johnson fawns and capers around him as if Charles de Gaulle had come to Quebec as a conqueror indeed.

However, when the sorry nonsense is over, it may be found that the ill wind from France has actually blown us considerably good.

Whatever their racial extraction, Canadians now see revealed precisely what Quebec's premier has attempted to foist upon them under the airy camouflage of "cultural exchanges."

It is the very intrusion against which Quebec's noisiest spokesmen have protested so loudly and for so long, although with far less reason... political interference in Canada's domestic affairs by a European power.

If the Johnson intent was to use France as a bogey with which to win further concessions from Ottawa, I suggest that he has badly overreached himself, and will in time be made aware of that fact by his own people.

The fiercely provincial Quebecer preserves a sentimental regard for the land of his forefathers. But by his own lights and in the eye of history, he is a Canadian, and proud so-to-style himself.

His river is the St. Lawrence, not the Seine. I cannot believe that he would choose in any degree whatever to return to the poor relation status of French colonial which de Gaulle would thrust upon him.

MEETING FRIDAY

Rumbles Follow Frampton Move On New Centre

By JIM HUME
City Hall Reporter

A special meeting of Victoria City Council has been called for 9:30 Friday morning to discuss a recommendation that a private company build the proposed convention centre.

The decision of Ald. Percy Frampton to call for endorsement of the Oxford Leasehold proposal for a twin-tower hotel office-block complex including a convention centre and stores has created consternation at city hall.

The recommendation flies directly in the face of the terms of reference laid down at the Special Convention Committee meeting held June 15, the only official meeting called by chairman Ald. Frampton.

At that meeting it was agreed that:

• Further detailed study be given to the two prime sites adjoining the Crystal site and to see what could be worked out as a joint-project between the CPR, Crystal Garden site and the Ocean Cement waterfront area.

The recommendation flies directly in the face of the terms of reference laid down at the Special Convention Committee meeting held June 15, the only official meeting called by chairman Ald. Frampton.

At that meeting it was agreed that:

• Institute discussions with Canadian Pacific Railway to ascertain the cost of CPR lands adjoining the Crystal site and to Government House in the evening.

The visitors will meet Mayor Hugh Stephen at city hall and a government luncheon in the Empress.

Fellow Officers Form an Archway of SwordsVICTORIA MAN WED IN ONTARIO SERVICE

A wedding of wide interest to Victorians took place in the Trinity Chapel of Base Borden, Ont., when Linda Arlene Buchanan became the bride of Lieut. John Noel Stuart, RCASC.

Parents of the principals are Staff Sgt. Albert B. Buchanan and Mrs. Buchanan of New Lowell, Ont., and Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart, 1661 Garnet Road, Victoria.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a flowing length gown of satin crepe that was enhanced with a flowing train and overlay of Chantilly lace.

CENTENNIAL SHADE

Her four attendants all wore gowns in Centennial Sweetheart pink nylon. Matron of honor was Mrs. Yvette Jones, the bridesmaid was the bride's sister, Miss Gwenda Buchanan, and the two junior bridesmaids, nieces of the principals, Christine Buchanan and Michelle Bastin.

Lieut. Andre Seguin of Montreal was best man. Ushering the guests were the bride's brothers, Bill and Gary Buchanan; Capt. Don Chambers and Capt. Tupper Cawsey, friends of the groom.

As the couple left the chapel they were greeted with a 10-man guard of honor commanded by Capt. R. A. Embrey of Borden, Ont.

Exercise Accounts for Your Loss of Inches When Dieting

It's not luck! It's pluck, at any age! This week is my group therapy week when I use my column as a sounding board to bring you the experiences of some of the women who followed my B.I.P. reducing routine last January.

Their letters are interesting. They request help for problems they still have after losing, tell how loss of weight affected their lives, ask how their ideal weight can be maintained. I am sure these letters will inspire many other women to follow their examples. For instance:

THE BETTER HALF

By Bob Barnes

"I'm curious what happened during your childhood that caused your psychological fear of buying steak."

Sword-Smith Vows Heard In Vancouver Ceremony

A wedding of wide interest to Victorians took place in Shaughnessy Heights United Church, Vancouver, recently, when Delana Carol, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Smith of Vancouver, became the bride of FO Rondy David Sword, RCAF, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon R. Sword, 777 Cook Street. The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. G. E. James, also of Victoria. Rev. John B. Kent officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk crepe, which she made herself, trimmed with Calais lace, styled on empire lines. Her silk tulle veil misted to cathedral length, held by a headpiece of white stephanotis and pink rose petals. For jewelry, the bride wore a small gold cross, gift of the groom, and pearl earrings, gift of Mrs. Jill Adamson, her chosen matron of honor. She carried a sheaf bouquet of long-stemmed pink rosebuds.

COPENHAGEN BLUE
Other attendants were bridesmaid Mrs. Marianne Cameron, and bridesmaids the Misses Elvira Schinke, Ellen Bligh and Marlene Wallace. They wore gowns of terylene crepe in graduated shades of Copenhagen blue, accented by blue velvet ribbons at the waistlines. They carried colonial nosegays of white carnations, and four and one-half from my hips!

"I am thrilled to death! I now wear size 13 dress whereas before I wore a size 16 dress. How did I do it? Well, I never exceeded 1200 calories a day, and I did every exercise you recommended, working up to 35 times each, daily, sometimes a few more.

"I only began reducing with your plan six weeks ago and have lost 17 pounds. I want to lose six more and that will bring me down to my ideal weight.

"Again, thank you for giving us 'fatties' the initiative to lose excess pounds."

This letter shows you what exercise can do. This reader lost only 15 pounds but look at her measurements! The loss in inches is far out of proportion to the loss in pounds. This is because she exercised faithfully.

Exercise is an extremely important part of a reducing routine, not only because it burns up calories but because it also brings the measurements into a better ratio. Then, too, it helps avoid flabbiness, and of course, you all know what it does for health! If there is no reason for not doing so, exercise. If this is impossible, you can still reduce just with calorie counting.

If you would like to take the same course this reader did then you will want my B.I.P. Kit. This includes a booklet with complete directions for losing weight beautifully, a calorie chart, weight and height chart, champion exercises, and a unique weight chart on which you can watch your beauty line rise as your weight line drops.

Ask for my B.I.P. Kit. Send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling, and your printed name and address, to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SHOPPING GUIDE
Kitchen Gadget Helps Give Breakfast Pep

By PENNY SAVER

Breakfast in the Saver household is not, I regret to say, a glorious occasion. Members of the family tend to struggle in at odd times, grope about for their favorite breakfast foods, and then sit and mumble at each other. It has always amazed me that in the period between sitting down at the table, and getting up after a meal they have just barely noticed eating, the mood of each member of the family changes. Hubby happily remembers that it's his golf day, Junior goes rushing off to dress, and the little ones are full of giggling energy. This transition seems nothing short of a miracle to me.

It has occurred to me that the good foods we eat for the morning meal (whether we're awake to notice them or not) must be the reason for the happy change. Most families serve some kind of fruit juice to start the day off with energy. In our house, Penny has to rise and shine pretty early to get orange juice ready.

I had never thought of making up a pitcher of it the night before until I saw a marvelous kitchen aid in a local shop. It's a combination juice squeezer and pitcher made of a durable plastic. The squeezer fits like a lid on top of the pitcher, and acts as a strainer — the juice goes straight into the container. This combination set also has another plastic lid for refrigerator storage, and the pitcher has two handy adjustable pouring spouts for serving at the table. This great time-saver comes in a quart and half quart size, respectively priced at $5.50 and $4.25.

This is the time of year when many households may adopt a puppy into the family. There is nothing cuter than a floppy-eared, wobbly-legged little fellow — but he can be pretty exasperating. Puppy-training can be a long and trying job, but there is a product available that will help your pooch learn the difference between the living-room carpet and the garden more quickly. It is a spray which can be placed in a very small quantity on a newspaper near the door to outside — the scent will attract the dog, and in a short time, he will be trained. Then you can move the paper outside, decreasing the amount of spray used. This energy-saver costs $1.49 for a tin.

For anyone who cannot be home to look after an animal, goldfish are ideal pets. If you've stayed away from these interesting little fellows because you've had visions of having to sit in the garden digging up worms for them you should know about a new fish food. This is a dried food compound that is excellent fare for the "fishy set". It is odorless, absolutely clean, and will not cloud the water. Priced at 59 cents for a good-sized package, this food can be pressed against the edge of the tank or bowl so that the feeding fish can be easily viewed.

If you'd like to know where I found any of these items please give me a call at 382-3131.

Chances Are Better Here

NEW YORK (CP) — Want to live longer? If you're a woman past 60, Canada is the place to be.

On the average, Canadian women at 65 may expect to live another 16.1 years.

Figures compiled by the U.S. National Centre for Health Statistics and a large life insurance firm show that Canadian women rank ahead of those of Norway, The Netherlands and the United States in that order.

For travelling on honeymoon to the Caribbean, the new Mrs. Sword chose a shell pink silk crepe dress and jacket ensemble which she accented with white accessories.

The newlyweds will live in Moose Jaw, Sask.

Men have a lower life expectancy than women by perhaps three to five years. Norway's men lead the world, followed by those of Israel, The Netherlands and Sweden.

DEAR ABBY . . .

'Guests' Disrupt Quiet Apartment

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are a retired couple with grown, married children. About a year ago we took a three-year lease on an expensive apartment. The main reason we took it was because they won't rent to anyone with small children, and we like it nice and quiet.

Across the hall lives another retired couple. They have a married daughter who has two little wildcats for kids, and every time this daughter has a fight with her husband, she picks up and runs home to Mama with her wildcats. She has been at her mother's more than with her husband lately.

They just left yesterday after a six-day stay, which nearly drove my poor husband crazy. Those kids started yelling, and screaming at 6 a.m., and didn't stop until 10 p.m. Now my neighbor tells me her daughter and her husband have smoked the peace pipe and are going on a second honeymoon for three weeks, so she (the grandmother) is keeping the wildcats.

I complained to my landlord, and he said the children are "guests," not tenants, so there's nothing he can do about it. Please give me some advice.

GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: Talk to a lawyer and let him look over your lease. If it has a loophole large enough for two wildcats to squeeze through for an indefinite period to time, you are out of luck. Otherwise you may have fun playing hide and seek.

PHONE CALL NERVES: Tell your friend (this is a "friend") which hours she may telephone you, and if she doesn't respect your wishes, TELL HER OFF. If you don't, I wouldn't blame your husband for telling YOU off. You owe him more than you owe this woman.

DEAR ABBY: We have a son who has just finished his junior year in college and plans to attend graduate school a year from now. He became engaged to a sophomore girl last Easter. She is studying nursing. They want to get married this summer.

We have financed our son's education entirely. Our son and his girl want both sets of parents to finance their schooling and say if they are married it will be cheaper than living apart.

How much are parents supposed to "help" their children, and for how long? Don't you think if a boy is old enough to get married he is old enough to support himself and his wife?

WONDERING: DEAR WONDERING: How much "help" parents give their children, and for how long is a decision that only the parents can make. It has been my observation, however, that when a child wants to marry while going to school, if the parents approve of the choice, they will give it all. But if they don't approve, it "hurts" just short of the giving.

ABBY FAN

DEAR FAN: Small matter whether your neighbors would "take kindly" to your warnings. Warn them anyhow. And warn the boy, too.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is on the road three or four days a week but he is always home on the weekends. We have a year-old baby and another on the way. I have been warned by good friends that I had better travel with my husband if I want to save my marriage.

I suppose my mother would keep my child if I asked her to, but I don't think that would be right. And if I were to go on the road with my husband, it would be hard for me in my condition to go from hotel to hotel and do all that travelling. My husband thinks I should stay close to home. I would appreciate your advice.

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED: I agree with your husband. I don't know what your "good friends" are trying to tell you, but if you have to go on the road with your husband in order to "save" your marriage, that road will be a blind alley.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a person who calls you up just to "chat" at midnight? She has got me out of bed

Young CUSO Nurse From Oliver Uses Dense Jungle as Highway

NEW DELHI (CP)—Not many young college graduates think two years in an Asian jungle has priority over a comfortable career at home.

But then not many are like Henning Meundel and Meridel Fowler, a pair of energetic grads serving with the Canadian University Service Overseas 50-man task force in India.

After eight months both Meundel, 25, of Oliver, B.C., and Miss Fowler, 25, of Red Deer, Alta., are ecstatic about the job though quick to note its difficulties.

"Life in India is like living in a fishbowl for most of us," says Meridel, who graduated four years ago from the Royal Alexandra nursing school in Edmonton.

"We are strangers and our habits are different and I've had people stare for minutes at a time, watching what I'm doing. But I got just what I asked for."

For six months the slim Brunette worked in the mountain community of Nilgiris in Madras state, the only Western nurse in a territory of 1,000 square miles.

FEARS DISAPPEARED

"I knew what I was getting into because I was in the Middle East for five months before I applied to join CUSO and saw the living conditions of the poor and what happened to people who do not get enough to eat."

She worked on a plantation, treating workers and their families, looking after the sick in a nearby village and making regular visits to a 12-bed district hospital and a regional residential school.

Footpaths through the jungle were her main thoroughfares.

"I knew there were elephants, monkeys, panthers and other wild animals but I never ran into any trouble. The first time I went through the jungle I was a bit nervous, but in a few weeks you never think about danger."

STRESS CLEANLINESS

Her basic worries were malnutrition and cleanliness among the people.

"You do your best to treat both, but it's an almost impossible job. It was strange to see the way people labored at keeping their clothes clean but never thought about bathing."

HONEYMOON ON THE OREGON COAST

Couple to Live in Prince George

Following a honeymoon trip touring the Oregon coast, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Watson Vagt will travel north to Prince George, where they will make their home.

The bride, the former Joanne Irene Hiquebran, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hiquebran, 546 Normandy Road, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Emily Vagt, Edmonton, and the late George Vagt.

Gladioli in white and yellow theme decorated the Church by the Lake, Elk Lake, for the service conducted by Rev. Harry Pike.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of point d'esprit, fashioned in cage style. Tiny floral appliques of Venetian lace outlined the sabrina neckline and elbow-length sleeves of the gown. Back interest was created with a full train. Her tiered veil of silk meribel and other CUSO workers earn between $5 and $7 a week and get free room and board. If they complete their two-year assignment they are given a $500 bonus.

"Some food is shipped in, but I supplemented it with local dishes such as dhal (bean soup) and chapatti. That's something like pancakes and tastes frightfully good."

Sometimes it's a bit lonely "because we never hear any news from Canada." But hours are long so "you don't end with too much free time to fret about this."

After six months at Nilgiris she was transferred to a village 100 miles away where Meundel is helping the Nig Adivasi Welfare Association establish a farming colony for the primitive Panya tribe.

"Just a daily wash would have solved many of the health problems I found."

HEAVY PENALTIES

Tunisian Casanovas Now Crumble Under Legal Fire

TUNIS (Reuters) — Casanova in Tunisia, where Islam is the state religion, now risk a prison sentence as courts become more stern in cases involving "immoral behavior."

As these cases increase, newspapers frequently publish reports of court sentences on seducers or men who fail to keep their marriage vows. Some unfaithful wives also go to prison.

In one of the most serious cases, a grandfather fell in love with his married granddaughter and she with him. He was sent to prison for five years.

A photographer who had a love affair with a girl after his studio was accused by her of provoking her marriage, was imprisoned for three months.

In another case a young Tunisian who approached a foreign girl tourist in the street and tried to embrace her was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

A six-month sentence was passed on a married man with four children who fell in love with a girl, although she later was declared a virgin by an examining doctor.

A woman and her lover, her husband's friend, were both imprisoned for four months and

FOUR-PASSENGER APACHES*Airwest Applies for Duncan Run

DUNCAN — Airwest Airline of Vancouver has applied to the Department of Transport for a licence to operate a scheduled run between Duncan and the mainland.

Company spokesman Ralph Leeman said in Vancouver Monday a decision is expected in a few weeks.

Meantime Airwest has tried out twin-engine Apache on Duncan airstrip and found it suitable.

The Apache can carry four passengers.

Duncan Flying Club president Roy Teasdale hopes to get a grant to finance extension of the runway.

Extension of the strip from the present 1,800 feet to 2,400 feet would cost $10,000.

"As the airstrip was completed in centennial year it should be eligible for a senior government grant," Mr. Teasdale said.

He hopes the provincial highways department will reduce the extension cost by repeating the assistance given when the present strip was cleared and levelled.

If the airstrip achieves department certification flying training can be undertaken locally instead of student pilots having to be taken to Victoria.

PARK OPENING MONDAY*'Unorganized Area Shows Rest of Cowichan Valley'

DUNCAN — Bright Angle Park will be officially opened and dedicated at 6:30 p.m. Monday from Tillamook, Oregon, will give a concert and precision drill display in downtown Duncan Sunday evening.

The dedication will be performed by Mrs. Jack Fleetwood, Cowichan Station whose husband donated the original five acres of land in 1958.

The 28-acre park is the centennial project of South Cowichan Recreation Commission.

Park land lies on either side of the Koksilah River about six miles south of Duncan.

Last stage of the project before the opening is building a 185-foot span suspension bridge.

Chairman of the bridge building program is Jim Quaife who said his crew has been doing some "death defying" feats in stringing the bridge.

In the past four weeks four men have put in almost $1,000 worth of volunteer labor — Mr. Quaife, Roland Brown, Harold Myrba and Bert Kyle.

EVERY NIGHT

Last week they worked every night until dark and three of them each put in 12 hours' work Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Quaife donated almost 38 hours in his spare time.

"It is really gratifying to see the bridge and the whole park project take shape," he said.

"I think the people of the unorganized area are showing up the rest of the Cowichan Valley."

GOOD RESPONSE

The volunteer band's enthusiasm has evoked generous response.

B.C. Forest Products Ltd. at Crofton has donated over 500 feet of cable and guy wires plus railway steel for the bridge.

Gravel Hill Supplies Ltd. of Cobble Hill gave the volunteers all the cement they needed.

Duncan Ironworks and E. & M. Machinery of Duncan also made contributions.

Already the public is becoming aware of the park.

Mr. Quaife said there were 200 persons at the park Sunday picnicking and swimming in the river, including parties from Alberta and California.

BARBECUE

The opening festivities will include a salmon barbecue purveyed by Abel Joe and members of the Cowichan Indian Band.

Deputy minister of recreation Dr. David Turner is expected to represent the provincial government.

Henry Dosch, a retired prairie farmer who donated an acre of land to make the bridge project possible, will cut the ribbon to open the bridge.

To mark the dedication, Mrs. Fleetwood will unveil a six-foot cairn and inscribe bronze plaque.

Drag Strip Owner Fined For Speeding

DUNCAN — Mike Stogrin operator of Sans Cobble Drag Strip, was fined $50 here Monday for speeding.

He indicated he intends to appeal.

Duncan RCMP testified Stogrin was followed along the Koksilah stretch of the Trans-Canada Highway at speeds up to 70 in a 50-mile-an-hour zone.

Stogrin protested the trial going ahead when he was unable to call two witnesses who are out of town. He said he did not know they were to be away.

Magistrate George Hallett said the accused had since May 26 to make sure his witnesses would be available.

Stogrin said although his dash lights were not working he knew as a professional driver he was not doing 70 miles an hour.

"SMALL TALK"

He said when stopped by the police they first mentioned his tail lights were out and only after "making small talk" about his powerful car did they issue the speeding ticket.

At the same court two men pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

James Ernest Gladstone and Bernard Patick Joe, both of Duncan, were each fined $300 and had their driver's licences suspended 30 days.

Pony Rally Won By Langley

DUNCAN — Lynn Oakes led her Langley team to victory at the B.C. Regional Pony Club Rally here over the weekend.

Langley's three-member riding team won both the class C and D events, and Lynn was the over-all individual winner.

There was a total of 45 entries representing five clubs.

Second place in the senior C class went to Richmond, and second in the D events was Cowichan, represented by Bruce Halliday, Patricia Prangley and James Green.

Cowichan's other team of Heather McDonald, Linda MacRae and Milton McCool placed third in the D events.

Stable management prize also went to Lynn Oakes.

Cowichan stable managers were Marylyn Maxwell and Diane McNab, Calvin Green was non-riding captain for both teams.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes presented the prizes Sunday afternoon and stressed to the competitors the need for sportsmanship, teamwork and care of their animals.

MUSIC CAMP UNDER WAY

COURTENAY — A two-week music camp for young B.C. musicians opened here Saturday.

First of its kind, the orchestral training camp is a centennial project of the Juvenile Symphony Society of Vancouver.

In addition to playing instruments, those attending will have plenty of chance to play games and take part in recreational pursuits.

DEADHEAD MARKERS PROVIDED

PORT ALBERNI — Yellow markers are being supplied free to boatmen to mark deadheads floating in the Alberni Canal.

They are being supplied by the Port Alberni Harbour Commission in an effort to reduce the hazard presented by the floating, partly submerged logs.

The commission is also paying $5 for every deadhead towed in on proof of performance.

Tom Barnett, NDP, Comox-Alberni MP, is trying to find out from the department of transport if regulations are adequate.

He said the jurisdiction involves both federal and provincial governments.

Mr. Barnett pointed out that oil pollution of navigable water is punishable under law and the question is "can the federal government enact a similar law concerning deadheads."

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas said in an interview here today that French President Charles de Gaulle's "Long live Free Quebec" remarks in Montreal Monday "were the words of a grueling day."

Mr. Douglas appealed to all Canadians to keep the president's remarks in perspective.

"We ought not to read into them more than was intended."

If the French president was meddling in Canadian affairs, that would be unfortunate, Mr. Douglas said. But no good purpose could be served by hasty recrimination on Canada's part.

Press Roasts French Chief For Views

Newspapers in France, Britain and the United States have criticized President de Gaulle for encouraging Quebec separatism.

Even a Quebec separatist leader said he found de Gaulle's attitude surprising.

And a Montreal MP has called for the immediate cancellation of the remainder of the French president's visit to Canada.

The New York Times and the French liberal paper Combat today criticized de Gaulle for encouraging separatism.

Combat asks in a front-page editorial what right de Gaulle has to get himself involved in the internal affairs of another country.

"By what right does he make himself judge, referee and instigator of Quebec's destiny?

"We also ask ourselves by what culpable unthinkfulness General de Gaulle, in evoking the economic realities peculiar to Quebec, forgot that Quebec lives in the economic orbit of the United States, according to manners borrowed from the American way of life, that the links that bind it to American capitalism assure it a comfortable present and future — and that it is still awaiting French investors," the newspaper says.

DOUBTS VISIT HELPFUL

Combat wonders whether it was really helpful, "if it is not crazily dangerous, to go with this aplomb before the separatist minority of Quebec, to give them such tokens, such a guarantee rather than to play a part in the harmonious development of Canada."

MONTREAL — President

Charles de Gaulle shouted the slogan of Quebec separation to an excited crowd of thousands of separatist demonstrators here Monday evening.

The French president's cry of "Vive le Quebec libre" (long live free Quebec), and a massive and well-organized turnout by members and followers of the separatist Rassemblement Pour l'Indépendance Nationale, made his arrival at Montreal a tumultuous demonstration in favor of Quebec independence.

Separatist View Stirs Up Storm

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson planned a mid-afternoon statement today following an emergency cabinet meeting that debated the controversial Quebec speech of President Charles de Gaulle.

A cabinet spokesman said the prime minister has not spoken to Gen. de Gaulle or any member of his staff since the French president ended a Monday night speech in Montreal with the separatist slogan: "Vive le Quebec libre."

The spokesman added that he was unable to say whether any representations had been made to the visiting French party through the French embassy here.

REACTION NOT HAPPY

A senior member of the federal ministry, Trade Minister Winters, told reporters outside the cabinet meeting that his reaction to Gen. de Gaulle's speech in Montreal Monday night was one of "extreme unhappiness."

He added:

"I think everyone feels that way, not limited alone to English Canada."

Mr. Winters said he, like other ministers, is receiving a flood of telegrams and protests.

The de Gaulle remarks have produced a flood-tide of protests to the prime minister's office. As of early today 65 protest telegrams had been received along with many telephone calls. The prime minister's switchboard was still busy.

There were demands that the balance of the French president's Canadian visit be cancelled for this apparent meddling in the touchy domestic situation centring on long-standing demands of a vocal Quebec minority for independent status.

CANCELLATION UNLIKELY

Government officials said it was unlikely the cabinet would cancel the de Gaulle visit to Ottawa Wednesday, but other more subtle diplomatic action was not ruled out.

It was hoped that President de Gaulle would change his tone today.

The French embassy here has been asked to supply the government with a transcript of the de Gaulle's remarks in Montreal so officials will know exactly what he did say.

Prime Minister Pearson, who up to early last night was inclined to dismiss what General de Gaulle was saying in Canada as merely a repetition of what he has said before later was described as "exasperated and angry" over the president's breach of international protocol in the Montreal speech.

"How best to handle the situation?" That was the question the cabinet ministers had before them.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin was at the meeting.

DIEFENBAKER: Stern Reprimand Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said today

Prime Minister Pearson should issue a stern reprimand to President de Gaulle and ask him to make no further public speeches while in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who is in Western Canada, said in a statement issued by his office that Gen. de Gaulle's visit "has degenerated into a situation detrimental to national unity."

This happened while Canadians were celebrating a centennial in amity and accord, he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Pearson "should at once issue a stern reprimand to Gen. de Gaulle, coupled with an admonition that he abstain from further public addresses during the remainder of his stay in Canada."

23 KILLED, HUNDREDS INJURED

Detroit Paralyzed as Troops Move In

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Staff Writer

U.S. Army paratroopers, moving on President Johnson's orders, deployed through riot-torn Detroit today to try to establish civil order.

Police in at least 10 other U.S. cities put down overnight racial violence.

In Detroit, 48 hours of burning, looting and killing left the city paralyzed. Relative calm was restored at dawn as the paratroopers relieved tired national guardsmen.

At least 23 persons had been killed and hundreds of others injured. Sniper fire and destruction sealed the downtown to most commerce. Property damage soared into the hundreds of millions.

The president, speaking Monday night over radio and television, said he had acted only in the face of "indisputable evidence" that the situation could not be controlled locally.

About 1,800 men of the 101st and 82nd Airborne Divisions relieved national guardsmen on the east side and deployed within striking distance of other danger spots.

SITUATION STILL SERIOUS

"Things appear relatively quiet, but the situation is still very serious," said Lt.-Gen. John Throckmorton, commander of the paratroops.

Buses dimmed in combat readiness, rumbling into the city as deaths and injured mounted.

President Johnson ordered paratroopers to join 7,000 police and national guardsmen duelling for control of the streets with rooftop and doorway snipers and arsonists, reports came of racial unrest in other Michigan cities.

Camped at an air base minutes from the city were 3,000 more of the troops who were rushed from Kentucky and North Carolina earlier in the day.

As the first waves rolled through streets bathed in the glow of fresh fires set by looters

Arthur Mayse

ALD. FRAMPTON
... new direction

On this side we have Montreal's good Mayor Jean Drapeau with his earnest assurances that Expo has done much to cement Canadian unity. On the other, Quebec's "Prime Minister" Daniel Johnson seems deliberately bent on destroying any last remaining shred of unity between English and French-speaking Canadians.

Which man, which viewpoint, most truly represents the province that produced both speakers?

Eventually, I suppose we will have an answer to that question, and with it a clearer view of our future as a nation than we now possess.

As a Canadian — and an angry one today — I would be all for making do as best we can without the problem can without the problem were it not for Jean Drapeau and those of his stamp. Builders and progressives, workers within Confederation, they are new world men second to none in their will toward a firm and continuing union.

In the long run, if we in English-speaking Canada refrain from losing our heads and forcing an issue, I believe that such men as these will prevail over Quebec's reactionaries, separatists and Francophiles.

You may consider that view unduly optimistic in a week which brings us the uniquely distasteful spectacle of a European head of state doing his spiteful best to further alienate one Canadian province from its neighbors.

This while Premier Johnson fawns and capers around him as if Charles de Gaulle had come to Quebec as a conqueror indeed.

However, when the sorry nonsense is over, it may be found that the ill wind from France has actually blown us considerable good.

Whatever their racial extraction, Canadians now see revealed precisely what Quebec's premier has attempted to foist off upon them under the airy camouflage of "cultural exchanges."

It is the very intrusion against which Quebec's noisiest spokesmen have protested so loudly and for so long, although with far less reason ... political interference in Canada's domestic affairs by a European power.

If the Johnson intent was to use France as a bogey with which to win further concessions from Ottawa, I suggest that he has badly overreached himself, and will in time be made aware of that fact by his own people.

The fiercely provincial Quebecer preserves a sentimental regard for the land of his forefathers. But by his own lights and in the eye of history, he is a Canadian, and proud so to style himself.

His river is the St. Lawrence, not the Seine. I cannot believe that he would choose in any degree whatever to return to the poor relation status of French colonial which de Gaulle would thrust upon him.

Vessel Trapped Again

The Victoria-based hydrographic survey vessel Richardson is again icebound, 35 miles east of Point Barrow, Alaska.

The 60-ton vessel was first trapped Saturday but managed to free itself only to be caught twice in heavy ice Monday.

The ship left Victoria recently heading for the village of Tuktoyaktuk its base in the Mackenzie River delta to start a four-year stint of survey in the Western Arctic.

500 MILES AWAY

It was about 500 miles from its destination when wind-driven ice trapped it and squeezed it out of the water damaging a propeller.

The Canadian icebreaker Camsell is about half a mile from the Richardson and the U.S. Coast Guard icebreaker North Wind is also standing by awaiting more favorable conditions before trying to free the ship.

The rescue ships are under orders to tow or escort the Richardson to Tuktoyaktuk.

Death Car Off Course Jury Told

A car which crashed near Portage Inlet last month killing a young American was mysteriously off course, a coroner's jury learned Monday night.

David Arellanes, 24, of Novato, Calif., died in hospital June 17 after the car travelled 690 feet out of control, smashing twice into rock bluffs alongside the Trans-Canada Highway at Wilkinson Road.

SLEEPING

Two other people in the car, Bert Ris and Glen Wendle, both of Ladysmith, told the jury Monday night they were asleep when the crash came.

Both agreed Arellanes had started along the Patricia Bay Highway for Sidney when they fell asleep.

Less than 2½ hours later their car thundered into rocks on a different highway, covering 160 feet "airborne" before the crash.

The car belonged to Wendle who said he had turned the keys over to Arellanes because he was too tired to drive.

The jury ruled the auto was driven "in a criminally negligent manner by a person unknown."

Ceremony Of Flags Wednesday

One hundred and thirty men will take part in a new naval ceremony Wednesday designed to honor the Canadian flag.

The CFB Esquimalt Band, two gun crews, a 48-man guard and color parties will participate in the "Ceremony of the Flags" in Beacon Hill Park at 8:30 p.m.

The salute will be taken by former city manager group captain C. C. Wyatt in the park's west soccer pitch.

Other centennial activities for the week range from a spectacular Chinese parade to a water ski show.

They include:

• Fred Usher Entertainers, 7:30 Thursday, Centennial Square.

• Sunset Ceremony of Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, Legislative Buildings, 9 p.m., Thursday.

• Canadian National Water Ski Championships, Elk Lake, Friday through Sunday.

• Victoria Chinese Community Centennial Parade, Fisgard to Douglas, Fort Government to Fisgard, 9 p.m. Saturday, followed by Chinese entertainment in Centennial Square.

MEETING FRIDAY

Rumbles Follow Frampton Move On New Centre

By JIM HUME
City Hall Reporter

A special meeting of Victoria City Council has been called for 9:30 Friday morning to discuss a recommendation that a private company build the proposed convention centre.

The decision of Ald. Percy Frampton to call for endorsement of the Oxford Leasehold proposal for a twin-tower hotel and office-block complex including a convention centre and stores has created consternation at city hall.

The recommendation flies directly in the face of the terms of reference laid down at the Special Convention Committee meeting held June 15, the only official meeting called by chairman Ald. Frampton.

At that meeting it was agreed that:

• Further detailed study be given to the two prime sites recommended in the Convention Centre Report, namely the Crystal Garden site and the Ocean Cement waterfront area.

• Institute discussions with Canadian Pacific Railway to ascertain the cost of CPR lands adjoining the Crystal site and to see what could be worked out as a joint-project between the CPR and the city, and the provincial government.

• That representations be made for talks with CPR officials.

• That the planning department was already working on a submission to senior governments regarding the urban renewal proposal.

• And that discussions with private developers were proceeding.

He added that in early talks with senior governments regarding the urban renewal proposal had been "most encouraging" and a formal presentation will be made to council concerning preparation of the scheme on July 27.

And he added: "I think it is important that all three of these avenues of investigation be pursued with all dispatch to ensure that sufficient information is available on all alternate methods of providing convention facilities before council is called upon to make its final choice."

On Thursday, July 13, Ald. Frampton reported to city council that all was progressing well with his committee's convention centre study.

In his report he said the terms of reference laid down were being carried out faithfully.

• That arrangements had

Senior Governments Keen on Plan

The Times learned Monday that Ald. Frampton was being extremely conservative when he said senior governments were "encouraging" on the urban renewal proposal.

Both levels of senior government have been more than encouraging.

The federal authorities are keen to see the Bastion Square concept extended towards the Causeway.

The provincial government has also expressed approval of the waterfront scheme and has pledged up to $1 million in matching grants if the convention centre is built on the Wharf Street location.

Ald. Frampton's call for endorsement of the private capital proposal appears to recommend abandoning the work done on the urban renewal proposal and the rejection of

Ex-Alderman Pressed for Speed

It was also learned that while Oxford Leasehold has worked out no specific details on lease-back arrangements of the convention centre to the city, the minimum amount under discussion has been $250,000 a year.

Although the official committee secretary and two key members were absent from the three discussion sessions, other committee members were present at all or some of the meetings.

The full committee is comprised of Ald. Frampton, Ald. Hugh Ramsay, Clyde Savage, the city manager and the city planner.

Mr. Savage, a former alderman, on several occasions stated that speed is of the essence in the building of the centre.

At the final meeting of his convention centre study committee, the last meeting before drafting his now published report to city council, Mr. Savage said: "If the convention centre can't be built in 1968 we may as well forget it."

There is little doubt in city hall that if the urban renewal scheme is the one selected the centre will not be built next year.

It is estimated that it would take at least six months to clear legislative hurdles at the provincial and federal level and possibly a further year to get the project under way.

But, say officials, any arrangement requiring the city to enter a long-term $250,000 yearly lease-back arrangement would before it could proceed.

He claims that rejection of the scheme by the taxpayers could set the project back for years.

And, they add, it should not be forgotten that Oxford Leasehold has assured the city that the twin-tower hotel and office complex will go ahead with or without a convention centre.

Ald. Frampton had originally asked that the special council meeting be scheduled for Thursday morning, the day before the mayor arrives back in the city.

One of Ald. Frampton's arguments against the waterfront site is that the proposal would have to go to the people before it could proceed.

23 KILLED, HUNDREDS INJURED

Detroit Paralyzed as Troops Move In

By BOB MONROE

U.S. Army paratroopers, moving on President Johnson's orders, deployed through riot-torn Detroit today to try to re-establish civil order.

Police in at least 10 other U.S. cities put down overnight racial violence.

In Detroit, 48 hours of burning, looting and killing left the city paralyzed. Relative calm was restored at dawn as the paratroopers relieved tired national guardsmen.

At least 23 persons had been killed and hundreds of others injured. Sniper fire and destruction sealed the downtown to most commerce. Property damage soared into the hundreds of millions.

The president, speaking Monday night over radio and television, said he had acted only in the face of "indisputable evidence" that the situation could not be controlled locally.

About 1,800 men of the 101st and 82nd Airborne Divisions relieved national guardsmen on the east side and deployed within striking distance of other danger spots.

"Things appear relatively quiet, but the situation is still very serious," said Lt.-Gen. John Throckmorton, commander of the paratroops.

Press Reverberates To de Gaulle Words

From Times News Services

Following are excerpts from editorials in representative Canadian newspapers on President de Gaulle's visit to Canada:

Toronto Globe and Mail: President Charles de Gaulle of France has come into the country and thrown his weight behind separation in Quebec.

For the head of a foreign state to accept the courtesies of a friend and use them to exacerbate a difficult domestic problem is virtually without precedent... How Prime Minister Pearson and his cabinet can undo the damage... at the same time receive Mr. de Gaulle will test the government's diplomatic skills as they have never been tested before. A great deal will depend upon their success. The cause of Canadian unity could be set back far back—if they fail.

Toronto Star: We must assume that he has deliberately offended and affronted Canada. If the people of Quebec want liberation (independence) from the rest of Canada, as de Gaulle seems arrogantly to assume, they can have that too.

If Prime Minister Lester Pearson had half as much national and personal pride as President de Gaulle... he would cancel the general's scheduled visit to Ottawa tomorrow and advise him to leave Canada immediately. That wouldn't be wise... We trust that Mr. Pearson privately will inform President de Gaulle that his conduct has been rude, tasteless and quite unacceptable.

Toronto Telegram: For a man who is a stickler for protocol and who bridges at any transgression of protocol in his own

CABINET

He had been in Montreal where General de Gaulle was touring Expo but returned hurriedly to attend the emergency meeting.

He is known to be very agitated over de Gaulle's conduct in Quebec and the French president's deliberate meddling in Canadian domestic affairs.

He telephoned Prime Minister Pearson immediately after General de Gaulle shouted the Quebec separatists' slogan from the Montreal balcony. Mr. Martin expressed deep concern over the actions of the French president.

SHARP CONTRAST

A spokesman in Prime Minister Pearson's office said Mr. Pearson was in a "state of heated exasperation." This was in sharp contrast to earlier in the day Monday when spokesmen in the office insisted that Mr. Pearson was "keeping his cool" and after examining what the president was saying now with what he has said before—found little difference in his remarks, but a great difference in the atmosphere in which de Gaulle was saying them.

But that was before General de Gaulle blurted out "long live free Quebec." That changed the entire picture insofar as Prime Minister Pearson was concerned. He is understood to be very annoyed and disturbed.

TWO COURSES

There are at least two courses of action open to the government:

(1) Bluntly and pointedly snub General de Gaulle's arrival in Ottawa, a move that some prominent officials in Ottawa were still saying Tuesday morning was a "possibility," even after the initial indignation had worn off.

(2) Prime Minister Pearson to throw away his original speech of welcome and deliver a carefully worded message in which General de Gaulle would be bluntly told to keep out of Canadian affairs.

The prime minister has demanded transcripts of what General de Gaulle said, including one from the French embassy in Ottawa.
